Re: More BCPS, BC justice system blunders

Dear Mr. Eby:

Has it occurred to you, and to the BCPS, that:

1. Since March 2020 BC Corrections has been operating under "COVID protocols", which requires, amongst other things, that inmates be single bunked in order to facilitate social distancing and decrease the likelihood of spread within the facilities. That means that only half the amount of people can be detained. That means that many more people are being released on bail and/or offered sentences of time served. Which means, since NOTC (where I have been housed since March 2020) is at capacity, that dangerous offenders, violent offenders, drug dealers, gang members, rapists, child molesters, et cetera, are being released on bail and/or on time served because there is no space for them in the BC jails - while, at the same time, the BCPS has been fighting to keep me in jail by fervently opposing my release on bail and seeking 18-24 month sentences for a simple breach of probation, for having done nothing more than maintaining a perfectly legal website which just happens to publish proof of the corruption they have been, and continue to engage in - absolutely no violence, no history of violence, no threat of violence, no harm or danger to society or to property. And, the BCPS cannot claim it is to protect Capicano because whether I'm in jail or not, the website remains publicly accessible AND they've already proven by their refusal to prosecute me for criminal harassment based on that website that this has absolutely nothing to do with protecting or seeking "justice" for Capicano.

Now consider how this looks to the public, that the BCPS (under your authority) would rather not occupy one of those jail cells than a dangerous, violent, rapist, child molester, or gang member; that the BCPS (under your authority) considers it more important to get ME off the street than to get dangerous, violent pimps, drug dealers, rapists, gang members, et cetera, off the street.

2. By keeping me locked up in jail for, essentially, the past five years the BCPS has put me in prolonged contact with, literally, hundreds of other people who have encountered exactly the same corruption and misconduct I have been exposing on the website. And by doing that they have enabled me to amass a mountain of proof that the corruption and misconduct I've been exposing and documenting on the website is not limited to my cases but is, in fact, systemic and has been occurring on a daily basis in, literally, hundreds of completely unrelated cases, by many prosecutors in the BCPS, and many judges in the BCPC and BCSC.

The most amazing part is that all those prosecutors, those LSS funded "defense lawyers" (and, of course, LSS itself), and those judges, seem to be completely oblivious to the fact (or too arrogant to think it could ever affect them) that all those defendants are being housed together and are fully capable of sharing and comparing their experiences. And all they've been needing is someone with the intelligence, motivation, diligence and perseverance to gather all their experiences and all their evidence and report/expose it all in an organized, orderly, entertaining fashion for the masses.

Those folks over at the BCPS aren't very smart, are they, Mr. Eby." I look forward to publishing this letter on that horrible website your guys are trying so hard to make me take down.

Sincerely,

Patrick Fox

P.S. I do not believe the Canadian public gives a crap about the corruption and injustice going on in the BC (or in the Canadian) justice system. It seems to me a very Canadian value to primly ignore any injustices or "human rights" violations going on within Canada, while simultaneously criticizing other countries for committing the exact same injustices and violations. My efforts are not for the benefit of the Canadian public.

P.P.S. And ~~(remember)~~ remember, the reason I send you these letters is so that later, when the question comes up, you cannot claim you were unaware.
